Dear Learner,

We hope you are all keeping well and engaging with your online learning. Remember two more days and we certainly recommend that you take a well earned rest from all your hard work and efforts to continue with your studies in what must be a very strange time for you all. We would like to congratulate you on adapting to the blended learning approaches and working hard, responding to your teachers and completing the work set.

We have received a further update circulated by Qualifications Wales (QW) relating to the assessment arrangements for GCSE, AS, A level and Skills Challenge Certificate qualifications this summer. Link to Qualifications Wales Learner Letter

The learner letter above contains a link to the guidance schools have received about how the process of determining Centre Determined Grades will be administered, however as noted in many of the sections guidance and details will follow. The purpose of the guidance currently received is:

“This guidance gives an overview of what decisions teachers need to make, how they should make those decisions and what types of evidence should be used to support those decisions. This will support WJEC’s Qualification Assessment Frameworks and be supplemented by further guidance” (Qualifications Wales guidance document).

As you will appreciate, until we receive further direction from WJEC with regards to the subject assessment frameworks and a clear timeline of landmarks and deadlines we are limited in the decisions we are able to make at the moment. Following the update it is very important that you stay focused and keep working through your studies so that you are ready to demonstrate the skills, knowledge and understanding you have and are developing. Please be assured that your teachers and all staff at Milford haven school will continue to prepare and deliver online learning activities and lessons during this period of lockdown.

Finally, we are sure we will be communicating with you as we get further updates but, until then, if anyone has any concerns or worries, please do not hesitate to contact us on the following email addresses: Standards leader for KS4 and KS5 mgriffiths@milfordhavenschool.co.uk or jletten@milfordhavenschool.co.uk .

Yours sincerely,
